Local Film Returns to L.A.

Sebastopol, CA— After premiering in Hollywood earlier this year, Born of Woman Films' short film Edible returns to Los Angeles. The LA Femme Film Festival will screen Edible on Friday, October 12th from 4:00-6:00pm with the feature film Once Upon A Film.

LA Femme Film Festival is a premier festival that focuses on women filmmakers' platforming their commercial films for the worldwide audience. It is a festival for those women who want to have an equal opportunity in commercial entertainment desiring to change, enhance, or become leaders in the industry as a Director, Writer, Producer or Director of Photography.

This year's festival will be hosted by Melissa Rivers (Joan & Melissa Live at the Academy Awards, Where Are They Now?) and will honor director Martha Coolidge (Former President of the Directors Guild of America, Rambling Rose, Material Girls, CSI) as well as actors Rosanna Arquette (Desperately Seeking Susan, What About Brian, The L Word, The Whole Nine Yards) and Lea Thompson (Caroline and the City, Back to the Future, A Life Interrupted).

Having premiered at the Reel Women International Film Festival in Hollywood in March, Edible was nominated the very same month for Best Northern California Short Film at the Sacramento International Film Festival. In May, Edible screened both locally, at the Mendocino Film Festival and internationally, at the 60th annual Festival de Cannes' Short Film Corner in France. July brought Edible to The Maine International Film Festival. Born of Woman Films plans to screen Edible at more film festivals throughout the year.

Filmed entirely in Sonoma County, Edible is a short film that illustrates the difference between nourish and consume. This eloquent film about eating graphically articulates the impact our fundamental relationships can have on our life.
